Customer Statements

„Driving, demanding and persistent, TMAG has prepared our managers for disruptive, volatile times, uncertainty and complexity.

With a fine feeling for the culture of southern Germany and the ability to pick up the managers where they stand, TMAG quickly creates acceptance and a basis of trust. At the same time, it always has an open ear for our problems, which it addresses with flexibility, creativity and a sympathetic portion of humanity.”

Jana Schmidt, Head of Human Resources M-net Telekommunikations GmbH

„Never a dull moment.”

„The collaboration with TMAG promotes you to take a step away from your usual thought patterns and invites you discreetly but inevitably to question and reflect upon your actions and their impact. We always had the feeling that they were truly interested in our development and that they would never let us give up. They were strict but empathetic!”

Alfred Bernhard, C.E.O. at Würth-Hochenger

Customer Statements

Transformation Management AG has been with us since 2013. Their concept promised to prepare us and our managers for turbulent times. Yet neither they nor we ourselves knew how turbulent the times were to become: Three different company names with three different strategies and three different management teams in a period of four years illustrate this forthright.

Despite these dynamics and numerous reorganizations, we have been able to improve the quality of our services, achieved our targets and positioned ourselves as a reliable partner in a constantly changing environment. Thanks to TMAG's understanding of our requirements, its conceptual thinking, its sensitivity to people, situations and economic needs and, not least, making visible of our behavioral patterns made and continue to make TMAG's consulting processes so effective for our company.

The collective development initiatives with our managers have already left a lasting impact. We are clearly moving towards a more open corporate culture with a higher level of "functional intimacy" in and among the organizational units.

Dr. Roman Necina, VP Process Development and Technical Services, Baxter/Baxalta/Shire Austria

What to do?

umdaschgroup ...when you are the CEO of a very successful corporation but already know that the current leadership culture is not sufficient to master the challenges of the future or rather to remain No. 1 in a global market. From here there are many possibilities.

We have chosen to work with the team of Transformation Management under the leadership of Prof. Graf because we have had already worked in good collaboration with them in the field of Talent Management, where in fact the groundwork for a successful future-oriented leadership culture lies.

We needed something that shows us the current behavioral patterns quickly and offers us an objective representation of ourselves. At the same time, we wanted to show how new and other behavioral patterns of leadership can be more effective in order to increase performance significantly. We were able to develop this on the basis of the „ LMC –Future Mind“ and have implemented it for all our global managers.

This can only work when the CEO himself is ready for change and is aware that he was and is also part of this past culture. Courage and a certain amount of risk willingness are necessary as the outcome is difficult to assess in advance. What I and all managers had to learn is that it is not a fast process. Changing corporate cultures takes as long as it took to create the former culture.

The sustainability of this process „LMC –Future Mind“ with professional support is significant!

We have found this sustainability with Mr. Prof. Graf and his team from "Transformation Management St. Gallen" who are specialists in changing corporate cultural. Thank you again for this wonderful support!

Jürgen Obiegli, Chief Executive Officer, Doka Group

Customer Statements

The Rombach Group is an over 80-year-old family-owned organization active in several divisions of the media sector.

The organization is now led by the third generation of the family, therefore continuity in change. This is precisely what characterizes the collaboration with the consulting group Transformation Management AG. We have been working with the management board member Mr. Prof. Dr. Stephan Laske for over 30 years in several matters and at different levels of intensity.

The keys to success are openness, trust and personal appreciation on the one hand and professional consulting competence in business, organizational and interpersonal topics on the other hand. The question for practical solutions is combined with questioning the concerned people, which also has a quite challenging note to it. Reflection and self-reflection are key components of their consulting approach, which leads to conviction, motivation and ultimately satisfaction of the managers.

We can only highly recommend the Transformation Management AG.

Andreas Hodeige, Managing Director at Rombach Druck + Verlagshaus GmbH & Co. KG

ATU

"I started the course to become an academically certified talent manager in May 2021 and successfully completed in 2021. The practical content of the course, the exchange with other colleagues and the feedback from TMAG were very helpful. As part of the course, I was allowed, among other things, to design an internal talent program, which is already in a very successful implementation phase at ATU. I received very positive feedback from the participants of this talent program, all the way up to the management.

Thus, this course had an absolute added value for me personally, but above all also for my daily work as a personnel developer."

Matthias Hablawetz (ATU Academy)
